Palliative Care

How we can help you, your patients & members of the eastern community

Tuesday, 21 November 2016 [6.00-8.00pm]

Palliative care recognises the special needs of a person who has a life-limiting illness. The focus of care is on clients being comfortable, assisting with their symptoms and helping make changes that make their life easier. Palliative care aims to make the client feel in control of their treatment options and their quality of life. It involves caregivers and friends, recognising that they too need to be prepared for the death of someone they love, as well as being able to offer help and support during the grieving process.

About Eastern Palliative Care [EPC]

EPC is a not-for-profit, home-based palliative care service which offers a full range of support programs with the aim of improving the quality of life of individuals, caregivers and families of those suffering life-limiting or terminal illnesses.

Special Guest Speaker

Dr. Peter Sherwen, Palliative Care Physician

Dr. Sherwen is a Specialist Palliative Care Physician who has worked in hospitals, hospices and community settings for the last 15 years. In addition to the great work he does with Eastern Palliative Care, he contributes his expertise at Epworth Healthcare and Caritas Christi Hospice.

Peter works as part of the EPC team which includes nurses, family support workers, music and massage therapists, biographers and volunteers. Together, they support our clients and their carers by providing a holistic approach to care provision.
