End of Life Care Workshop

For consumers, carers, families and service providers

End of Life Care is a well-recognised priority area, both nationally and locally with Australia's rate of dying at home being comparatively low compared with other similar OECD countries. Whilst acknowledging that people want to be able to die in their place of choice, there are numerous factors that prevent this from happening for a lot of people.

The Eastern Melbourne Primary Health Care Collaborative (EMPHCC) Alliance have identified End of Life Care as a priority project for 2017/2018.

Event overview

Using Eastern Health's Rapid Improvement Methodology this workshop will consider how many people die in their place of choice and for those that don't, the reasons why it doesn't happen.

The workshop will form part of an investigation the End of Life Care Working Group is undertaking into understanding the barriers people have to dying in their place of choice. It will also help inform the co-design of potential solutions to ensure more people are supported in their choice of where they wish to die.

Eastern Melbourne Primary Health Care Collaborative

Eastern Melbourne Primary Health Care Collaborative (EMPHCC) is a joint initiative involving Eastern Melbourne PHN (EMPHN), Eastern Health, the Department of Health and Human Services, Community Health and Primary Care Partnerships.

EMPHCC is overseen by a Governance Group, and a Strategic Alliance works to develop projects and opportunities for improvement across the Eastern Melbourne catchment.
