

Travel and Immunisation Update

Schedule update – Heidelberg For GPs and nurses

Travel health is an increasingly routine part of general practice in Australia. Exposure to infectious diseases, some of which are vaccine preventable, is one of the many hazards of international travel. This session will cover pre-travel medical advice and practical aspects of recommending vaccinations for travellers.

Event overview

Presented by: Dr Peter Eizenberg
Director, Doctors of Ivanhoe; Executive Director, NEVDGP; Member, Influenza Specialist Group, Immunisation Coalition. Former member of several national immunisation committees.

Learning outcomes

- Outline the process and approach to providing pre-travel vaccination advice
- Identify and recommend common travel vaccines
- Discuss treatment regimens for malaria medication
- Explain the rationale for 2017 Influenza vaccination program and relevance to travel
- Implement effective rabies prevention and management strategies prior to travel.

This education forms an Accredited Activity under the RACGP QI&CPD Program.
