COVID-19's second wave has heavily affected Victoria's most vulnerable within the aged care setting. Join your peers as we consider how effective the COVID response has been and what key learnings have been made.

This forum will bring general practitioners from across the state together to consider and discuss how to ensure best practice care is maintained in aged care settings during the COVID climate. Topics include the Step Down model, repatriation of residents back into facilities, the release of facilities from isolation, PPE expectations and the re-testing of previously COVID positive patients.

By the end of this session, you will be able to:

- Describe the Step Down model
- Apply best practice when repatriating residents back into facilities and transitioning into the care of their GPs
- Discuss when and how a facility can be released from isolation
- Apply PPE expectations for GPs who work across multiple sites (even if sites are considered low risk or outbreak free)
- Appropriately re-test residents who have previously tested positive

SPEAKERS:

Dr Jagdeesh Singh Dhaliwal (GP, aged care), Dr Michael Murray (geriatrician), A/Proff Mary O'Reilly (infectious diseases expert) and A/Proff Dr Lisa Clinnick (director, aged care services).

Time:
7:30pm - 9:00pm
