

HIV s100 Prescriber Course Parkville

VICTORIAN HIV AND HEPATITIS
INTEGRATED TRAINING AND LEARNING

Advanced level training designed to support GPs in initiating and managing people living with HIV in general practice and provide the opportunity for participants to establish relationships with local specialist services for ongoing mentoring and referral.

Learning Outcome

- Describe the principles of initiation of antiretroviral therapy
- Evaluate the complexity of factors influencing patients' treatment decisions
- Develop a clinical management plan for a patient on therapy, incorporating strategies for health promotion and harm minimization
- Describe the contributing factors to the development of treatment toxicities and antiretroviral resistance
- Identify appropriate referral pathways for complex HIV issues including salvage therapy, women considering pregnancy and IRIS

Travel grants may be provided to GPs in rural and remote Victoria to attend the course and become a HIV s100 prescriber. For more information please contact a member of the VHHITAL team.

Held over two days, the course will consist of modules on ARV therapy, screening and monitoring, toxicities and adverse effects, special scenarios, and clinical skills development. Facilitators will include Dr Olga Vujovic, Professor Jenny Hoy, Dr Matt Penn, and Dr Mark O'Reilly.
