Learn how to respond to people affected by ice.

What you will learn.

360Edge, Australia's leading alcohol and other drug consultants, is now delivering free half day workshops to frontline workers across Victoria. Eight new inner city sessions for workers across health and welfare have just opened up!

The training will build your confidence, knowledge and skills so you can respond safely and effectively to people affected by the drug ice.

- Understand the effects of ice and identify users
- Find out how to work safely to protect yourself and others
- Learn how to respond to ice-affected people
- Discover what works in treatment

This free session will empower you with the knowledge and skills required to manage people affected by ice.

“ Well presented and easy to understand. A worthwhile learning experience to help cope with the job. ”

About the training

As a frontline worker, you have a greater likelihood of coming into contact with people who use methamphetamine ('ice' or 'speed'). Learn effective strategies to respond. Managers and workforce educators will also benefit.

This training is eligible for continuing professional development points for most professional bodies. A certificate of attendance is provided.

These free practical workshops are funded by the Victorian Government's Ice Action Plan and delivered by Australia's leading consultants in ice responses.

“ So helpful... This training should be compulsory! ”
