IMPROVING BREAST CANCER OUTCOMES: PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE

The Victorian Comprehensive Cancer Centre is joining with Breast Cancer Network Australia (BCNA) to present a special public lecture, exploring the history, current practice and future of breast cancer treatment.

Hosted by Kirsten Pilatti, CEO of BCNA, the forum will examine how far we have come in breast cancer research and treatment over the last 30 years and what we need to do to overcome the disease in the future.

The event will feature one of the world's foremost breast cancer specialists, Dr Eric Winer from the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in the United States. Dr Winer has designed and conducted clinical trials that have changed clinical practice and paved the way toward more personalised treatment of patients with breast cancer.

Free event for the community, researchers and the cancer workforce.

Presented by the VCCC Research & Education Lead Breast program and Breast Cancer Australia Network.
