Supporting Quality Care in Residential Aged Care Homes

HealthPathways provides the latest clinical and referral advice for over 900 conditions, which are regularly updated.

HealthPathways is developed in partnership with healthcare professionals and organisations in the greater Melbourne region.

HealthPathways is designed primarily for GPs, however many pathways include practical information that supports aged care nurses in managing resident needs and working effectively with visiting GPs.

HealthPathways is tailored specifically for the community with local up-to-date referral information and resources.

HealthPathways includes pathways and resources relevant to Residential Aged Care (RACH) staff, supporting palliative care, avoidance of unnecessary hospital presentations, wound care, and much more.

In an easy-to-navigate format, HealthPathways is designed for quick access during clinical practice. Search for a pathway by condition or symptom, then view best-practice steps for assessment and management.
